

ABSTRACT

A method of manufacturing a semiconductor integrated circuit device having a switching MISFET and a capacitor element formed over a semiconductor substrate, such as a DRAM, is disclosed. The dielectric film of the capacitor element is formed to be co-extensive with the capacitor electrode layer over it. The upper electrode of the capacitor element is formed to be larger than the lower electrode.